SOME MATHEMATICAL ASPECTS OF THE SOCIAL SECURITY AMENDMENTS IN PUBLIC LAW 93-66

By Albert Rettig and Orlo R. Nichols
Office of the Actuary

The Social Security Amendments in Public Law 93-66, passed on July 9, 1973, provided for a 5.9% increase in Social Security benefits and changed the earnings base in 1974 from $12,000 to $12,600. The increased benefits will be effective for June 1974—to be first reflected in the July 3, 1974 checks and will be made to all beneficiaries on the rolls—except those based on the special-minimum benefit provision. The amount of increase, 5.9%, was determined as the increase in CPI from June 1972 to June 1973. This increase in benefits is only temporary and will be replaced by the automatic increase scheduled for January 1975, which will be based on the increase in the CPI from the third quarter of 1972 to the second quarter of 1974.

Tables 1A and 1B show the amount of monthly family benefits payable under the Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance (OASDI) System to various types of families for each Average Monthly Wage (AMW) interval. The monthly benefit for each kind of beneficiary is determined as the appropriate percentage, as specified in the law, of the Primary Insurance Amount (PIA). The PIA in the benefit table, effective for June 1974 through December 1974, is based approximately on the following formula:

114.38 percent of the first $110 of AMW
plus,
41.61 percent of the next $290 of AMW
plus,
38.88 percent of the next $150 of AMW
plus,
45.70 percent of the next $100 of AMW
plus,

25.42 percent of the next $100 of AMW
plus,
21.18 percent of the next $250 of AMW
plus,
20.00 percent of the next $50 of AMW,
subject to a minimum PIA of $89.50.

The above PIA is payable to workers who retire at age 65 or who become disabled before age 65. Workers are eligible to a delayed retirement increment if they are not entitled to an actuarially reduced benefit. This increment is equal to  $\frac{1}{12}$  of 1 percent for each month for which they do not receive a benefit beginning with the month of attainment of age 65 or after December 1970, if later, and before the month of attainment of age 72.

Retired workers can receive retirement benefits as early as age 62 subject to a permanent reduction of  $\frac{5}{36}$  of 1 percent of the PIA, for each month under age 65 for which they are entitled to receive benefits. At age 62 the monthly benefits are equivalent to 80 percent of PIA. The amount of this reduction (or of any other reduction) is rounded to the next lower multiple of 10 cents, if it is not an exact multiple of 10 cents.

Wives (or dependent husbands) of retired workers are eligible to receive benefits equivalent to 50 percent of PIA if they start receiving them at age 65 or later. These benefits, which can be claimed as early as age 62, are subject to a permanent reduction of  $\frac{25}{36}$  of 1 percent for each month in which they are elected before age 65. At age 62, the monthly benefits are equivalent to  $37\frac{1}{2}$  percent of PIA. No reduction applies in the case of a wife who is caring for a child entitled to benefits unless the child is a student beneficiary.

Each dependent unmarried child of a retired, disabled, or deceased worker, under age 18 or student beneficiary (full-time student to the end of the semester in which he attains age 22) or a disabled child beneficiary who is over age 18 and who became disabled before age 22, is eligible for monthly benefits equivalent to 50 percent of his parent's PIA in the case of retired or disabled workers or 75 percent of his parent's PIA in the case of deceased workers.

Widows (or dependent widowers) of deceased workers are eligible for benefits equivalent to 100 percent of PIA if they start receiving them at age 65 or later and if their husbands (or wives) did not receive reduced retirement benefits. Reduced benefits are payable as early as age 60, but for those widows or widowers who are disabled it could be as early as age 50. These benefits, if claimed at ages 60-64, are subject to a permanent reduction of  $\frac{1}{4}\%$  of 1 percent for each month before age 65 that the widow or widower claims benefits. For ages under 60, the reduction is equivalent to  $\frac{43}{240}$  of 1 percent per month. However, widows or widowers aged 62 or over, of spouses who were receiving reduced benefits are entitled to the larger of (a) the amount that the spouse would have been receiving or (b) 82.5 percent of PIA, except that a sole survivor entitled at age 62 or over should receive a benefit of at least \$89.50. A widow who is caring for a child beneficiary (other than a student beneficiary) is eligible for a benefit of 75 percent of PIA. A parent of a deceased worker aged 62 and over is eligible to receive a benefit equivalent to 82.5% of the deceased worker's PIA if there is only one parent or 75 percent to each parent if there are two parents.

The lump-sum death payment payable upon the primary beneficiary's death is $255.

The Maximum Family Benefit (MFB) is based approximately on the following formula:

For AMW's under $628 the MFB is equivalent to 111.8 percent of the first $436 of AMW,

plus
55.9 percent of the next $191 of AMW
subject to a minimum of 150 percent of PIA.

For AMW's of $628 or more, the MFB is 1.75 times PIA.

As shown in Table 2, the MFB increases from 150 percent of PIA at the low AMW's, to a maximum of 188 percent of PIA at $436 of AMW, and then decreases to 175 percent of PIA for AMW's of $628 or more.

In determining the amount of the Monthly Family Benefits that are payable, it is first necessary to compute separately, the benefit for each entitled beneficiary in the family, rounding each benefit to the next higher multiple of 10 cents, if it is not an exact multiple of 10 cents. The individual benefits are then added to arrive at a total family amount. However, if this total family amount is greater than the maximum family benefit shown in the benefit table, the amount paid to each beneficiary (excluding the worker) must be reduced proportionately, again rounding to the next higher multiple of 10 cents.

Table 3 shows the effective earnings base and contribution rates for employee, employer, self-employed for the OASDHI System for 1974. Table 4 shows the effective maximum contributions that would be paid by a worker.

Special monthly benefits are payable to long-term workers. These benefits are equivalent to $8.50 for each year of covered employment in excess of 10 years, subject to a maximum of $170 per month for 30 or more years. For less than 21 years, the worker would receive a minimum benefit of $89.50, since the formula for the special minimum produces less than the regular minimum.

Effective for January 1, 1974, the amount of permissible annual earnings for retired workers, their dependents or survivors, all under age 72, for which no benefits are withheld is $2,400. For all earnings over $2,400, monthly benefits are reduced $1 for each $2 of earnings. This exempt earnings amount of $2,400 will be adjusted after 1974, according to increases in average earnings.

The maximum old-age monthly benefit for those retiring between January 1974 and prior to June 1974, is $274.60<sup>1</sup> for a male worker and $284.90<sup>1</sup> for a female worker. Effective for June 1974, these benefits will be increased to $290.90 and $301.80 for male and female workers, respectively.
